

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY SGMUN 3.0

Contents

1. Introduction

- About SG
- Model UN
- SG MUN
- Key Players Of The MUN

2. Why SG MUN

3. MUN Culture

4. Our Committees

- UNHRC
- UNW
- UNEP
- DISEC
- CND
- UNSC
- C. Committee
- IP

5. The Model UN Award System

- Best Delegate
 - Outstanding Delegate
 - Honorable Mention
 - Verbal Mention
 - Best Position Paper
 - Best Institution Award
-

Introduction

About SG

Swostishree Gurukul IB World School is a pioneer private institution offering state-of-the-art facilities, resources, and services. With our motto “Learning Today, Leading Tomorrow” we are committed to paving the way for providing what promising future leaders truly deserve. We are a fully co-educational institution that prides itself on its experienced professors, small class sizes, and, most importantly, a warm and welcoming atmosphere.

We employ a discipline where each student's work is rigorously scrutinized and an adult approach to education. We seek to build solid academic foundations, attain exceptional test results, and foster the maturity and independence necessary to seize life's possibilities.

Experienced faculty members and career counselors guide the students with their tried-and-true teaching methodologies and global perspective, emphasizing a bridge between theory and practice through case studies, lectures, experiential learning, guest speakers, and small group discussions. The institution offers a pertinent and demanding academic curriculum that gives students both the theory and the tools for successful academic prospects.

Model UN

MUN or model united nations is a simulation of the happenings of the UN meetings, where each committee will have an agenda on which the members of the committee will discuss to form a resolution.

SG MUN

Swostishree Gurukul Model United Nations is a MUN that provides not only a variety of committees but a chance for students to develop the skills that they need in their daily life including public speaking, critical thinking, communication, and negotiation skills. These along with the knowledge of real-world issues and how to deal with them using diplomacy will provide not only academic growth but also personal growth for tomorrow's leaders.

Key Players Of The MUN

A MUN conference's success is largely dependent on the organizing committee, which is crucial in the event's conception, management, and execution. The key players in the MUN organizing committee are as follows:

The Directory-General

The Directory-General of the Model United Nations (MUN) plays a pivotal role in orchestrating the event, ensuring its smooth operation and adherence to its educational objectives. This individual is responsible for overseeing all organizational aspects, including the coordination of committees, managing logistical arrangements, and guiding the work of volunteers and staff.

The Secretary-General

The Secretary-General is in charge of organizing the conference and is in charge of the whole MUN conference. They give direction, establish the conference's theme, and guarantee that all committees and events run well. The Secretary-General is in charge of organizing everything and making sure the event runs smoothly.

The Head of Logistics

All logistical parts of the conference must be managed and coordinated by the Head of Logistics in a MUN organizing committee. Their main responsibility is to supervise numerous logistical arrangements to make sure the event works successfully. This can include venue, facilities, transportation, meals, equipment, security, and allocations.

Core Logistics

An event or conference, such as a MUN (Model United Nations), requires careful preparation, coordination, and execution on the part of the logistic members working under the Head of Logistics. Their duties center on making sure that business processes run smoothly, that resources are managed effectively, and that services are delivered on time.

Logistics

The logistics of a Model United Nations (MUN) conference encompass a wide array of tasks and considerations that ensure the event runs smoothly and effectively. This involves securing a suitable venue equipped with necessary facilities, arranging accommodations and transportation for delegates, and providing technical support for presentations and communications.

The Head of Finance

A MUN organizing committee's head of finance is in charge of overseeing the conference's financial operations. Their main responsibility is to guarantee accurate budgeting, sound financial planning, and efficient financial management of the event as a whole.

Finance Assistant

The Finance Assistant of a Model United Nations (MUN) conference plays a critical role in managing the financial aspects of the event, ensuring its economic viability and smooth operation. This individual is responsible for budgeting, tracking expenses, and maintaining accurate financial records. They assist in the allocation of funds for various needs such as venue rental, materials, technology, and participant amenities.

The Head of Communications

Managing all communication avenues and ensuring efficient information flow both internally and externally are key responsibilities of the Head of Communications in a MUN (Model United Nations) organizing committee. Their key duties include keeping lines of communication open and constant between members of the organizing committee, as well as with delegates, academic advisers, and other stakeholders.

Head Of Administration

The Head of Administration of a Model United Nations (MUN) conference is a cornerstone in the organizational structure, ensuring that all administrative functions are carried out with precision and efficiency. This individual oversees the coordination of various departments, ensuring that logistical plans, schedules, and protocols are seamlessly integrated.

The Media Managers

A MUN organizing committee's social media manager's job is to strategically manage and supervise all social media channels associated with the conference. They are in charge of developing the conference's online presence, curating interesting content, and interacting successfully with conference attendees, advisers, and other parties involved.

IT-HEAD

The IT Head of a Model United Nations (MUN) conference is integral to the seamless execution of the event, managing all technological aspects to ensure efficient and effective operations. This individual is responsible for setting up and maintaining the digital infrastructure, which includes managing the conference website, registration platforms, and online communication tools.

MUN Culture

Model United Nations (MUN) culture is a vibrant community with a completely unique set of practices, norms, and traditions that have developed within the worldwide MUN network. It encircles formal debates, diplomatic language, and global consciousness. MUN tradition is characterized by an ardor for international affairs, a dedication to international relations and communication, and a shared notion within the strength of young humans to make an advantageous impact on the sector. MUN provides a platform for students to interact in experiential studying and increase precious skills.

MUN dress codes are an essential part of the MUN conferences, ensuring a professional and diplomatic environment in the course of the event. Dress codes vary relying on the conference's formality and guidelines set by the organizing committee. Generally, delegates are provided with dress codes for every day; traditional, semi-formal, and formal. It is crucial for delegates to familiarize themselves with the specific dress code guidelines provided by the organizers. By embracing an appropriate dress code, delegates make a contribution to the general atmosphere of professionalism, respect, and seriousness that defines the version of United International locations meetings.

A very fun part of MUN is 'socials' and 'delegate dance'. Both MUN socials and delegate dance play a vital role in enhancing the overall MUN experience. MUN socials are informal gatherings where delegates can engage in casual conversation and forge friendships. This offers a break from the formalities of committee sessions. Just like MUN socials, delegate dances are highly anticipated events during MUN conferences. Here delegates showcase their dance moves, celebrate together, and enjoy the music. These dances are typically held in the evening and may feature various themes or dress codes to add to the fun atmosphere.

Why SG MUN?

Educational institutions frequently host MUN conferences to give students the chance to participate in diplomatic role-playing and learn about international relations. Numerous benefits are offered by Swostishree Gurukul Model United Nations (SG MUN).

In SG MUN, we help delegates and prod them to take the initiative. The delegates control the committee even during meetings; the chairs just provide guidance.

Our MUN's primary goal is to bring delegates together and help them gain a better grasp of contemporary global concerns. Our goal is to help the students develop personally in addition to academically. We are sure that our MUN will enable participants to get the all-around competency necessary for participating in diplomatic simulations, comprehending global concerns, and acting as responsible global citizens.

Our Committees

MUN committees are the core components of the Model United Nations conferences, representing various branches of the United Nations. These committees stimulate diplomatic settings in which delegates anticipate the roles of diplomats and interact in debates, negotiations, and problem-solving activities. Here are the committees present in the SGMUN:

UNHRC

The United Nations Human Rights Council (UNHRC) is one of the prominent committees simulated in the MUN conferences where promoting and protecting human rights is kept as its main focus. The UNHRC committee permits delegates to delve into the essential realm of human rights, foster discussions on urgent problems, and domesticate the knowledge of the international community's effort to protect human rights for all. The committee covers a broad spectrum of subjects, including peace and security, development, and human rights.

UNW

The UN Women (UNW) committee is dedicated to promoting gender equality and women's empowerment worldwide. This committee enables delegates to address critical gender-related challenges, promote inclusive and equitable societies, and contribute to the advancement of women's rights and empowerment on a global scale. The committee focuses on a wide range of topics, including women's rights, gender-based violence, and gender-based discrimination.

UNEP

The United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP) committee is responsible for coordinating environmental activities and promoting sustainable development worldwide. This committee allows delegates to engage on essential issues regarding critical environmental concerns, and contribute to the development of resolutions that promote environmental safety and sustainable development at each local and worldwide tiers. The committee covers a wide range of topics, such as climate change, biodiversity conservation, pollution, and sustainable resource management.

DISEC

The Disarmament and International Security Committee (DISEC) focuses on global disarmament, arms control, and issues related to international security. This committee permits delegates to discuss and propose measures to address global disarmament, arms control, and international security challenges. It encourages members to interact in substantive discussions, develop diplomatic skills, and contribute to the pursuit of a more secure and greater peaceful global. The committee covers topics such as nuclear disarmament, regional conflicts, terrorism, and the regulation of conventional weapons.

UNSC

The United Nations Security Council (UNSC) is responsible for maintaining international peace and security by addressing conflicts, threats to peace, and acts of aggression. This committee allows delegates to address critical security issues, propose measures to mitigate conflicts, and contribute to the development of resolutions that promote international peace, stability, and security. The committee covers a wide range of topics, including ongoing conflicts, peacekeeping operations, disarmament, and the prevention of terrorism.

WHO

The World Health Organization (WHO) committee in a Model United Nations (MUN) conference serves as a simulation of the real-world UN agency dedicated to international public health. Delegates in this committee take on the roles of representatives from various countries and work together to address pressing global health issues such as pandemics, mental health, access to healthcare, and the impacts of climate change on health.

IP

The International Press (IP) represents the media and press organizations from around the world. This committee permits the delegates to simulate the role of journalists, report on the conference proceedings, and contribute to the dissemination of information and ideas. It provides an opportunity for delegates to develop their journalism skills while bringing a different dimension to the overall MUN experience.

The Model UN Award System

An award system is frequently used at Model United Nations (MUN) conferences to acknowledge and celebrate the accomplishments and contributions of participants. These honors are presented to people or delegations that excel at the conference in terms of their abilities, knowledge, diplomacy, and engagement. The following are the MUN awards presented at the SGMUN:

Best Delegate

The highest honor bestowed to a delegate is often the Best Delegate award. It is given to the delegate who exhibits exceptional leadership, tact, public speaking, negotiating, and a comprehensive understanding of the committee's agenda. The most productive and influential member of their particular committee is known as the Best Delegate.

*This award is replaced by “Best Reporter” in the International Press. This honor is granted to the conference participant who best exemplifies great journalistic skills, critical thinking, and effective communication.

Outstanding Delegate

Awarded to delegates who excel in performance and engagement throughout the conference is the Outstanding Delegate title. These delegates exhibit high levels of research, persuasive argumentation, active participation in discussions, constructive contribution to the formulation of resolutions, and great diplomatic abilities.

*This award is replaced by “Outstanding Reporter” in the International Press. Delegates who excel at reporting, show a thorough comprehension of international concerns and have a substantial impact on society are recognized with this prize.

Honorable Mention

Delegates who exhibit commendable performance and make a substantial contribution to the debates in their committee are given the Honorable Mention. They participate actively in committee meetings, demonstrate a thorough comprehension of the subject, and work with others to develop workable solutions.

Verbal Mention

Delegates who exhibit commendable performance and make a substantial contribution to the debates in their committee are given the Honorable Mention. They participate actively in committee meetings, demonstrate a thorough comprehension of the subject, and work with others to develop workable solutions.

Best Position Paper

A position paper describes the nation's viewpoint on the subjects on the committee's agenda. Delegates that submit thorough, comprehensive, and persuasive position papers that successfully convey their nation's policies and opinions are recognized with the Best Position Paper award.

*This award is not presented to the International Press as reporters are not required to write a position paper.

Best Institution Award

The Best Institution Award in Model United Nations (MUN) honors a participating institution's overall performance and accomplishments throughout the conference. This esteemed honor recognizes the teamwork, planning, and engagement of the entire delegation from a particular institution or university.
